

ACE Academic Camps for Excellence

Imaginary Worlds Camp

Parent Nomination Form

Qualifying scores are not available, but my child may benefit from the Imaginary Worlds Camp (IWC).

State and local policies have sometimes eliminated standardized testing in schools, so some students do not have test scores. If your child is home schooled or your school cannot provide scores for your child, you, the parent may nominate your child to participate in the IWC.

In order for the IWC to be beneficial for your child, he or she should:

- Be comfortable using computer technology appropriate to his or her age level;
- Get along well with other children his or her age;
- Be creative: have a good imagination and sense of humor; and
- Not be easily frustrated by problem-solving challenges.

If these are true of your child and you wish to nominate him or her for the IWC, please complete the form below and return it to Calvin College with your application.

For Students Without Test Scores --- Send this form with your application

I understand that the Imaginary Worlds Camp offers challenging activities. My child is creative, gets along well with other children, is comfortable using computer technology, and will benefit from challenging computer-related activities.

I recommend my child for participation in the Imaginary Worlds Camp.
